
Common token prices; points assume 70% cached input for both models